applied to Bulgarian stamps and sent to Sofia, fine and interesting group of postal history items from Bulgarian Occupation of Macedonia (the Bulgarian Army entered Greece on 20 April 1941 on the heels of the Wehrmacht without having fired a shot. The Bulgarian occupation zone included the northeastern corner of the Greek mainland and the islands of Thasos and Samothrace, the present-day region of East Macedonia and Thrace, except for the Evros prefecture (at the Greek-Turkish border) which, because of its strategic value, was retained by the Germans, despite Bulgarian protests. Unlike Germany and Italy, Bulgaria officially annexed the occupied territories, which had long been a target of Bulgarian nationalism) (web photo)..... 2,500.00

Prisoner of War Camps

- 702  After Germany and its allies were defeated in Tsingtao, more than 4,600 POWs were interned in temporary camps in cities throughout Japan. When it became clear that the war would last longer than originally expected, Japanese military authorities constructed permanent POW camps in Kurume, Narashino, Aonogahara, Osaka, Ninoshima and Nagoya.
- Camp Kurume was the largest in Japan, with 1,308 German prisoners, of which 59 were officers, and 47 Austro-Hungarians. Camp Ninoshima, with 536 Germans and 9 Austro-Hungarians, was isolated from the Japanese inhabitants because the island was situated off of Hiroshima and surrounded by high walls lest anyone see the naval port nearby. Camp Aonogahara, near Kobe, held 255 German and 230 Austro-Hungarian prisoners, constituting some 80 percent of Austro-Hungarians interned in Japan. Camp Bando, with 918 soldiers and 20 officers, was the second largest POW camp in Japan. Camp Bando prisoners issued a newspaper "Baracke". Camp Nagoya, housing 494 German soldiers and 12 officers, was situated in a city center. Camp Narashino was located close to Tokyo, with 546 Germans and 2 Austro-Hungarians interned there.
- Collection of 45+ covers or cards from Aonogahara POW Camp in Japan, some incoming mail, different destinations, including a Registered cover to New York, others to Shanghai, Germany, Honolulu, Austria, Russia (cover addressed to a POW camp in Samara), Japan, Tsingtao, China, etc. There is a good showing of censor marks (different colors, some very rare), mostly well described on pages, plus others purchased individually at auction, some still with the original descriptions, Camp stationery entire envelopes, exhibition postcards, Money Orders, locally produced lettersheet, visitor permit, preprinted greetings cards, etc. 1,500.00
- 703  1915-19 collection of 38+ covers or cards from Bando POW Camp in Japan, also two Telegrams, some incoming mail (one from United States), different destinations and excellent showing of censor marks, mostly well described on pages, Camp stationery, lettersheets, Easter postcards, Money letter, registered mail from Peking, via Mukden to Bando Camp, etc., mixed condition, mostly fine or better (web photo) 1,500.00
